After the Big Battle of Sunday Night

FIFTY PEOPLE ARRAIGNED IN POLICE COURT MONDAY

Non-Union Men Arriving in Stock Yard District.

A BIG SYMPATHETIC STRIKE

May Result From the Present Trouble—Strikers Deserting in Kansas City—The Day's Situation.

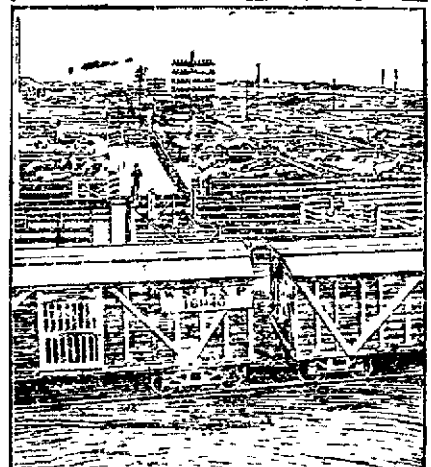

Chicago Aug. 1.—Quietude marked the morning of the twenty-first day of the stock yards strike, despite anticipated trouble due to the initiative in riots taken Sunday evening when 100 policemen and a mob of 3,000 strikers and strike sympathizers fought a hand-to-hand battle near Forty-third and Wood streets. Fifty persons were arraigned in the stock yards police court this morning as a result of that affair. Twenty people were injured and two saloons and a grocery were wrecked in the fight.

Shipments of non-union men from other cities continued to arrive at the yards this morning to be distributed is being prepared, a large scale requiring careful and expert work.

The absence of President Donnelly, of the butchers union, on a trip to the western packing center this week is taken as an indication that no immediate strike looking to a settlement of the dispute are contemplated. The receipts this morning were heavy.

At a meeting in Watita League hall Sunday live stock handlers voted to remain at work until called out by Donnelly.

Edward Poody lies at a hospital with a dangerous knife wound in the breast and suffering from other injuries inflicted by three men who attacked him this morning. He had been working for the international packing company since the beginning of the strike.

Fully 2,000 men, women and children surrounded the union labor supply stores at 9 o'clock today. There was a veritable forest of empty baskets waved high above the heads of the destitute.

Armour & Company today took back about 150 strikers, nearly all of them being Slav laborers, whose families are destitute.

STRIKERS DESERTING.
Kansas City, Mr. August 1.—The police this morning reported that many skilled butchers deserted the strikers and returned to work at Armour's.

LOUIS SYMPATHETIC STRIKE.
Louisville, Ky., August 1.—The labor organizations of Louisville, through the Federation of Labor, will offer financial aid to the strikers involved in the Chicago packing house trouble.

It is said that already the local here has received orders from Donnelly, to be in readiness for a walk-out. It is also said that the Central Labor body has been notified that a general sympathetic strike of all the organized labor of the country may be asked by Donnelly, through the American Federation of Labor, in the event that some settlement of the trouble cannot be otherwise reached.

WILL NOT INTERFERE.
Washington, August 1.—It is announced that President Roosevelt will not interfere in the beef strike trouble unless the trouble should spread or unless a meat famine should result.

THE TEXTILE STRIKE.

A GENERAL LOCK OUT MAY BE ORDERED

New York, Aug. 1.—If the members of the unions held responsible for the strike in the subway do not adjust matters promptly, a general lockout may be ordered by the building trades employers association to be followed by an attempt to establish an open shop.

At the meeting of the central federated union a more conciliatory attitude was adopted.

Following a secret session it was announced that a committee had been appointed to bring about an amalgamation of the two painters' unions, the brotherhood of painters' society, whose fight one against the other led to the subway strike.

If a general lockout is ordered between 25,000 and 50,000 men in Greater New York will be affected.

DEATH

Comes to Ex-Governor Pattison

PASSED AWAY EARLY MONDAY MORNING

Immediate Cause of Death Was Pneumonia.

RETURNED FROM CONVENTION

In Broken Health and His System Was In No Condition to Withstand The Attack.

Philadelphia, Aug. 1.—Former Governor Robert E. Pattison died at 6:25 o'clock this morning at his home here. Although pneumonia was the immediate cause of death Mr. Pattison was indirectly the victim of overwork in connection with the recent Democratic National convention. He returned here with broken health and shattered nerves. He is said to have done the work of at least five men as a member of the special sub-committee that drafted the platform. It is known for many hours he was without sleep and with a very meagre luncheon, he sat up all night and the best part of the following day working on the platform.

Mr. Pattison had been in indifferent health for several months and broke down under the strain of the Democratic convention at St. Louis. From that time he showed signs of weakening, but his remarkable power carried him through until last Monday night when he was seized with a chill. Pneumonia developed almost immediately, and his condition was seen at once to be most serious.

Two physicians were called in, one of whom remains at the house every night to be called in case of emergency.

Mr. Pattison's physicians at 11 o'clock last night issued this bulletin: "Mr. Pattison became suddenly worse Sunday afternoon and suffered a general collapse due in part to the intense heat of the day. He has since rallied somewhat but is slightly delirious. There is but little hope of his recovery."

The following bulletin was issued at Governor Pattison's home early this morning:

"The Governor developed another sinking spell, and his condition is most critical."

BOENNING PFROM
Philadelphia, August 1.—Robert Emmert Boenning, a Maryland, December 8, 1850. He was the son of a Methodist clergyman, a student of law and was admitted to the bar in 1872. Pattison gained a place in the party early in life. A reformer, he was chosen editor of Philadelphia by a vigorous administration. His office made him the nominee of the party for governor in 1882. His election over Dever was one of the political sensations of that period.

Eight years later he was pitted against Delamater and for the second time a Democrat carried the greatest Republican State in the Union. Later Pattison's political star waned and he was defeated for mayor of Philadelphia and later as the candidate for governor against Samuel W. Pennypacker. Even in the latter contest Pattison polled a surprising large vote in the country districts. Several times the tempting bait of a presidential nomination dangled for Mr. Pattison. The most notable instance was the last time Grever Cleveland was nominated after Tammany Hall in an effort to turn Pennsylvania's delegates from Cleveland, which would have prevented the nomination offered to turn in for Pattison.

Deceased was connected with various Philadelphia financial institutions and conducted his legal practice to the end.

COURTING

In Zion Must Be Done in the House Where the Old Folks Are Handy, Declares Dowie.

Chicago Aug. 1.—Rules for guidance in courting have been laid down by John Alexander Dowie, and the young man who fails to follow them will be branded as a robber.

"No young man," said Dr. Dowie in addressing his congregation at Zion City, "may hereafter go out walking with a young lady after dark without the consent of her parents. The place to court is in her home, where the old folks are handy and can be asked the question. If any young man wishes to court a Zion young woman he must first ask her parents, else he is a robber."

Dr. Dowie admitted before his congregation that some of the officers of Zion were misusing money which Zion had placed in their hands. In fact, he said, there were several officers who were likely to be hauled up for embezzlement of funds unless they made good at once.

The passengers were lined up and their valuables taken from them after which the express and mail cars were uncoupled from the train and run about two miles up the track and there dynamited and robbed. The robbery was reported at Logan, a small station some distance from Tornum, by one of the passengers who had escaped the robbers. At the headquarters of the El Paso and Northwestern railroad the news of the train robbery has received partial confirmation, but the officials say they can learn nothing definite as the hold-up occurred off their division. The dispatch from Tornum, while admitting a knowledge of the reported robbery, professes to know no particulars.

THREE JAP ARMIES ADVANCE ON THE RUSSIANS.

Gen. Count Keller is Killed by Bursting Shell.

KUROPATKIN SENDS A REPORT

Which Tells of the Japanese Movements in the Far East—Critical For the Czar.

St. Petersburg, August 1.—(Bulletin) —A big battle is in progress at Hai-Cheng, the Russian forces under General Kuropatkin. The three Japanese armies under Generals Oka, Nodzu and Kurokia are advancing on the Russian forces. General Count Keller, commanding the Russian forces in action, has been killed by a bursting shell. The situation at the front is regarded as critical.

St. Petersburg, August 1.—General Kuropatkin's report to the Czar regarding the fight at Hai-Cheng leaves the result of the fight in doubt. It is probable the fight is still in progress. Kuropatkin does not mention the death of General Count Keller. The report follows: "On July 31, three Japanese armies simultaneously renewed their advance on our southern front. The Russian rear guard offered a stubborn resistance until the attacks of the army revealed that they were of greatly superior strength. The rear guard then slowly retired in the direction of Hai-Cheng.

The Russian division near Simun-cheng, successfully checked the advance of the enemy, which pressed toward our right flank.

The Japanese main blow was delivered by the Taku Shan army. General Oka commanding, between Simun-cheng and Hai-Cheng, operating from various villages west of Simun-cheng on our eastern front.

"The advance of the Japanese began against our main position. At that moment their chief force was disclosed opposite our right flank and around it in the direction of Sematse and Liao Yang. The Japanese are also advancing against our troops east of Hakiatse."

Announcement was made in Saturday's Advocate of the promotion of E. & O. Freight Agent H. M. Grantham to Columbus, and the appointment of W. E. Kerr of Mansfield, to the Newark office. The Mansfield News says:

"W. E. Kerr, of the corner of West Fourth street and Washington avenue, Mansfield B. & O. freight agent, has been tendered the freight agency at Newark, and he has accepted it. Nineteen years ago Mr. Kerr began local work for this railroad company, laboring for a season at the ticket office in different capacities. Later he identified himself with the freight house, commencing with the lowest duty and gradually pushing himself forward until January 1, 1903, when he was made head of the company's freight business in Mansfield.

"Mr. Kerr is one of the best men the B. & O. has in its service and the citizens of this community will bear witness to this testimony. He is well liked by all who know him, is every inch a gentleman and a capable business man. Agent Grantham of the Newark freight office, has been promoted to Columbus, and the change is to be formally made August 1, although Mr. Kerr will be unable to leave so soon. The situation in Newark is more responsible than the one here and the salary more lucrative. It is stated that R. E. McKee, the Shelby agent, is to fill Mr. Kerr's place, but nothing official regarding this has been given out. This city will lose one of its substantial residents when Mr. Kerr departs, but the wishes of The News and all his friends go with him. He anticipates moving his family to Newark, probably in the fall.

All the big New York newspapers are against Roosevelt, which is clearly an index of how the people at the great business centers of the East will vote this fall.

According to the New York Herald's poll of the members of the stock exchange, Wall street prefers Roosevelt to Parker by about three to one. Teddy is just the kind of a "trust buster" that Wall street wants.

Henry C. Davis, acknowledging that he was a silver man in the Senate, now says "Conditions are entirely reversed. The country has changed, financial methods have changed, and the reasons I had for favoring silver have all been realized."

Rev. Edward Kelly, a Roman Catholic priest of Chicago, returning from a visit to the Philippines, adds his testimony to the overwhelming volume already existing that the islands can never be of the slightest value to the United States and ought to be got rid of.

With wages being reduced and living expenses being advanced, it is not strange that great strikes are reported in all parts of the land. A great wave of dissatisfaction is sweeping over the country and tens of thousands of thoughtful men are concluding that things are going wrong and that there ought to be some radical change.

Dull business for the past fifteen months has caused many farmers and merchants to think the prosperity for which the Republican administrations of the past eight years have claimed credit is a very fleeting and uncertain quantity. They are ready and anxious for a change, and are looking to the Democratic nominees for relief.

Roosevelt declares that Thomas Jefferson was a weak-minded demagogue and a blunderer as President. Now, Henry Clay, who was a much greater man than Roosevelt, never could be elected President because of his vituperation of Andrew Jackson, whom the people loved. For the same reason the people who revere Jefferson will vote against Roosevelt.

It is considered that New York is absolutely indispensable to a Democratic victory this year. This is a prudent conclusion; but it need not be forgotten that the count of votes in 1892 showed that Mr. Cleveland would have been elected even if New York had gone Republican. But, at any rate, rest assured that New York will be in the Democratic column next November.

Business conditions soon began to change for the worse after Roosevelt became President by the death of McKinley. This is why so many business interests consider Roosevelt a menace to their welfare. Business interests in a country like ours are much safer under the administration of a constitutional executor than that of a personal dictator. The improvement in business conditions already manifest since the nomination of Judge Parker, is a clear evidence of this fact. The business interests have confidence in Judge Parker. They know he is safe because he is the very antithesis of Roosevelt.

Senator Dubois of Idaho, gave Judge Parker an encouraging account of Democratic prospects in his section. He said much that was encouraging to say concerning his own State, Colorado, Montana and Nevada. He also declared that there was a good hope of carrying Washington. Senator Dubois occupies a position and has had an experience which gives his opinion much value and his diagnosis ought to encourage Democrats everywhere to greater efforts. If the States named, or a majority of them, should be carried for the Democracy, they might easily turn the scale in favor of Parker and Davis.

John J. Walsh, chairman of the Democratic State committee of Connecticut, declares that Parker and Davis ought to have 5,000 majority in that State. This is a good feeling for him to enter the campaign with. It will undoubtedly spur him up to making a vigorous and determined fight, and will inspire the Democrats of Connecticut generally to do their best. The State has a record of giving its electoral votes to the Democratic National candidates when its people are thoroughly aroused and old-time Democratic principles are at stake. With the encouragement afforded by the situation in New York, the Connecticut Democrats ought to make a good showing in November.

SIDE-STEPPING

Are New York Republican Leaders Who See How the Tide is Turning Against Roosevelt.

New York, Aug. 1.—The Herald publishes the following:

So pronounced is the feeling becoming that Judge Parker will carry the entire Democratic ticket to success in New York State that Republican leaders, who seldom hesitate to fight for positions on the Republican state ticket, are "side-stepping" with remarkable vigor, with the excuse that they have had all the political honor they care for.

Lieutenant Governor Higgins, who has been considered an active candidate for the Governorship this fall, announced that under no consideration would he be nominated. Furthermore, he has declined to be a candidate for re-election.

"It is about three I devoted some of my time to the business of Frank Wayland Higgins," he said "I think I have given as much time as I can afford to politics."

From the authoritative sources it was learned that Assemblyman James T. Rogers of Broome county, the Republican leader in the Assembly, would not be a candidate for Lieutenant Governor, as had been expected in case Higgins should retire.

Friends of Mr. Rogers said that he preferred to remain in the Assembly for a while longer in order to attain his ambition of succeeding Speaker Nixon at some future time rather than incur his prospects of running on the state ticket in a doubtful year.

Elihu Root, it was learned, has written personal letters to each of the active leaders of the party similar to that received by Governor Odell several days ago, stating that he did not wish to be a candidate for Governor. Mr. Higgins received a letter of this nature Saturday, while others heard from him on Friday. While they say that Mr. Root was positive in his statements that he was not a candidate under present conditions, they insist that there is no one in sight at present who possesses the elements of strength among Republicans and independents and that they expect he will change his mind.

"I think there is still a possibility of nominating him," said Mr. Higgins, "and I hope sincerely he will retire from his present position."

Some of Governor Odell's friends believe that Mr. Root's attitude is due to an understanding between President Roosevelt and himself. Knowing the President desires very much to have Mr. Root accept the nomination this fall, they have discovered that he is insisting that he will not take it now, with the intention of yielding later if the demand among Republican leaders continues, simply to prevent the charge that the President forced his nomination.

Governor Odell left the city at noon yesterday with a list of 25 names of possible candidates for Governor in his pocket, which he will consider today. This list contains the names of all candidates mentioned for the place up to the present time and is headed by Mr. Root, Cornelius N. Bliss and Charles A. Schieren. When he returns to the city on Tuesday he will probably have eliminated all but the favored few whom he considers "available" from the list.

WILLIAM F. SHEEHAN.

Ex-Lieutenant Governor of New York Is Close to Judge Parker.

One of the leading factors in the nomination of Judge Alton B. Parker for president by the Democratic convention at St. Louis was the Hon. William F. Sheehan. It was to Mr. Sheehan that the candidate sent his now famous telegram defining his position on the financial question. Judge Parker places great confidence in Mr. Sheehan's judgment in political matters, and it is expected that the former lieutenant governor of New York will take an active part in the direction of the Democratic national canvass. Mr. Sheehan is a neighbor of Judge Parker this summer, as he is occupying an estate at Esopus not far from Rosemount. He stands close to ex-Senator David B. Hill and to the well known financier, August Belmont.

Many of the public men of today were farmers' boys and learned to till the soil while studying the three R's. Mr. Sheehan was city bred, but he was not raised in the lap of luxury. He was born in Buffalo, N. Y., in 1850, and his father was poor, so the boy did what he could to help along. At one time he sold papers for a living. He attended the public schools and an academy in Buffalo and at twenty-two was admitted to the bar. He made his entrance into politics when in 1885 he was elected to the assembly of the state. He served in the assembly for several successive terms and in 1891 was chosen speaker. The following year he was elected lieutenant governor of the state and served until 1895. On his retirement he moved from Buffalo to New York for the practice of his profession, in which he has since been conspicuous as a corporation attorney. Mr. Sheehan has been known in politics as "Blue Eyed Billy." He is tall and florid, and his hair, like Judge Parker's, inclines to red.

ington, is in charge of the librarian, Dr. Cyrus Adler, and is guarded with much care. But congress has decided to enable a larger number of persons to familiarize themselves with the contents of the book, and to that end has passed a resolution which provides for the publication of 9,000 copies, with an introduction giving the story of how it came to be prepared by Mr. Jefferson. This is to be written by Dr. Adler. The copies are for the special use of senators and members of the house of representatives. Jefferson himself called the work "Moralis of Jesus of Nazareth." It consists of extracts from the New Testament intended to present a digest of the moral teachings of Jesus found in his own sayings and leaving out everything pertaining to his history. These extracts were arranged in parallel columns in Greek, Latin, French and English. The title page and index are in Jefferson's own hand, and on the pages containing extracts are found here and there interlineations and notes. The book is a leather bound volume and has 164 pages. Jefferson, in writing of it to a friend, said, "It is a document in proof that I am a real Christian—that is to say, a disciple of the doctrines of Jesus."

"Lefty" Snyder was put in the box for Sunday's game, and merely toyed with the Chicago Junction team. They only garnered three hits off his delivery and at no time was the game even exciting. The game was absolutely featureless. Robinson started to pitch for the visitors but was taken sick in the third inning and retired in favor of Mahaffey, Beck going to center field. ## AMUSEMENTS

The management of Idlevilde is presenting to their theater patrons this week a bill of exceptional merit and a novelty in the summer amusement line, the offering being what is termed in theatrical parlance "operatic vaudeville," which is a combination of the drama, opera burlesques and minstrel featuring "The Columbian" in their musical fantasy "The Wax Doll," an act that is conceded by all booking agents and theatrical managers as the most refined act in vaudeville.

The idea which gives the fantasy is quite unique, as it is pleasing. The father recalls the fact that it is his eldest daughter's birthday, and he has promised her a big French wax doll. Being unable to secure what he desires, he substitutes Claire, and presents her as the doll, she assuming the part of the wax doll.

dignity of an automaton in a wonderful manner retaining the character. Until she shows the audience that she is a real live little girl and a remarkable one too. Although having never received any musical instructions, she plays such masterpieces as Rosini's "Wm. Tell," "Toucanis, Hungarian Fantasy in F," "Faderewski's Minuet," etc., and finishes her portion by doing a Potpourri of dances while playing her own accompaniment. Ruth, her elder sister, possesses a sweet voice and renders some choice vocal selections, the most popular perhaps is the Indian love song, "Semirele," in which Marilyn, a wee little miss emerges from a diminutive tepee, dressed in full Indian regalia, doing the war dance greatly to the amusement of the audience and calling for repeated encores. The act is concluded with a beautiful minuet number in which the marvelous toe dancing of Myrilyn the little four-year-old tot, is introduced. The other feature of the bill is Brooke Eltrym, a good singer of sweet songs.

Innies and Ryan in their comedy sketch, introducing some of the latest songs of the day, among them being Harry Von Tilser "Just for Society's Sake," and "The Man in the Overalls."

Preston, the artist, presents a series of sketches that are both laughable and artistic. Taking this week's bill from start to finish it cannot fail to please.

THE GUATEMALAN ANTS

Habits of Boll Weevil's Enemy Being Studied.

SEVERAL FACTS DETERMINED.

Weevils Only Attacked When They Move—Imported Colonies Are Multiplied Rapidly—Texas Ants Killed by Foreign Variety—Plan to Establish Colonies Near Victoria, Tex.

There is a great demand for the Guatemalan ants from the cotton planters of Texas, but the government entomologists are to keep the imported colonies carefully during the remainder of the season and through the winter to see what their habits are, says a dispatch from Houston to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The ants are in the government laboratory at Victoria under the direction of Dr. Hunter, in charge of that branch of the government work in Texas; Entomologist Cook, who brought the insects from Guatemala, and Professor Lowton, curator of the civic museum of Philadelphia, who is at present engaged in the government work in Texas.

The ants were brought into Texas in bottles, the heart of the nest with the queen cell having been carefully incased and Guatemalan dirt placed in the jar. The colonies have multiplied greatly since the ants were put in the bottles, and Entomologist Cook arrived with about 6,000 healthy specimens, divided into eighty-nine colonies.

Several facts have already been determined in the experiments which are being conducted. It has been found that the ants will not seek the weevil, but that when they run across a moving insect they will at once attack. The weevil plays possum, and so long as it stays perfectly still the ants crawl over and around it without any attempt at molestation. When a weevil moves it is at once seized and an effort made to force back its head that the ant may get its sting on the exposed flesh of the neck, the armor of the weevil protecting its body elsewhere. If one ant is not sufficiently strong for this work it is assisted by a fellow, there appearing to be perfect harmony between them and an understanding as to how to work together. So far no weevil has been found to escape when once attacked.

There being a fear that perhaps the imported ant would not be able to hold its own against the native red ants, which are generally considered as being vicious, a number of them were procured and placed in a nest of the Guatemalans. The result was ascertained within a very few seconds, the Texans being wiped out and put in storage as food. Inasmuch as the Texas ants are generally regarded as a nuisance by the farmer, the Guatemalans may prove a relief from them as well as from the weevils.

It has been further ascertained that the ants frequent the cotton plants for the nectar thereof. They appear to be very fond of this secretion and so are the boll weevils. The ants swarm over the cotton plant and attack the weevil as quickly as found, seeming to prefer the insect food to the nectar.

It is proposed to establish colonies of the ants on the farm near Victoria controlled by the government for experimental purposes. The plan is to inclose a space about twelve feet square and to establish a colony at each corner thereof. The nests now contained in the bottles will be taken therefrom and set in the ground, it being the hope that the ants will at once resume their normal habits and go to housekeeping without loss of time. Thick stakes and sheets of tin will be sunk into the ground to such depth as will make it as certain as may be that the ants cannot burrow beneath them, and the tin will be extended upward to the stockade. Here they will be fed on cotton plants within the inclosure, so that the ants may be at liberty to attack them without having the task forced upon them. The study of the habits of the insects will be maintained at all times and an accurate log kept. They will be observed at night as well as by day to determine their nocturnal habits.

It is expected that they will hibernate during the winter, as do the native varieties, but the latter have some bad habits which will be looked for in the visitors. Arrangements will be made to so construct at least one of the colonies that a portion of its interior may be observed from time to time.

There will be nothing further done about the infestation asked by Ross Clark. Dr. Hunter has given his personal pledge that there shall be no liberation of the ants until it has been definitely determined that there is no danger of their becoming a pest, and as that was the sole point in Mr. Clark's contention he rests satisfied.

A large number of applications are already on file from cotton planters asking for colonies of the ants and agreeing to take them on any condition that may be imposed by the government.

WHAT WOMAN WEARS

The Long Skirt—A Three Piece Suit. Smart Traveling Gear.

The long skirt is so full and so many yards of material unconfined at the bottom that nothing short of a morda rope will support the volume of some drapery and keep it hanging in graceful flaring folds upon the ground. This rope is concealed in a silk casing attached to a flounce trimming of the drop skirt. Softer cotton ropes are also used, as well as cotton cording of a thick sort. This necessity bids fair to be the subject of further exploiting, and a new style of under support may be introduced later.

The dark blue veiling "three piece" suit illustrated is trimmed with fancy blue braid. The blouse of dark blue chiffon has a deep yoke and straps of veiling edged with tulle. A tailored belt is worn.

A director's hat, with its high stiff box crown and its dashing trim curves is by long odds the smartest for fall, well made women, although it does often add too much to their height. If this style of hat is not too exaggerated in size they may be worn becomingly by women anywhere from five feet five to six inches, as the gain in height then is of advantage according to the present ideal of figure lines. Women who are undersized should shun them, as they impart a certain burlesque air that is most objectionable.

Many of the smartly set up among the young contingent are traveling in tweed skirts and open three-quarter coats, severely plain, but on the best tailor lines. The shirt waists worn with them are dainty white lingerie affairs, very high in the neck, with prettily trimmed sleeves that show at the

A TRIFLING MISTAKE.

How the Druggist Felt When He Thought He Had Erred.

"I have strenuously objected to the easy going ways of the majority of western druggists," said the drummer, "but thus far I don't seem to have made much of an impression on them. I was in a Wyoming town last month, and, feeling unwell, I went to the drug store and got some quinine capsules. An hour after taking them I went to bed, and it was about midnight when I was aroused by the landlord, who asked:

"Stranger, are you feelin' all right?"

"Yes, pretty well," I replied.

"No horrible pains nor nothing?"

"No. But why do you ask?"

"I guess you'd better come downstairs. The druggist says there's some mistake about them pills. I want to tell you, though, that he's a powerful good feller and never pizen anybody on purpose."

"My hair began to curl before I was out of bed," continued the drummer. "I remembered that the druggist seemed to be careless in serving me, and, while the capsules had thus far had no bad effect, it did not take me long to imagine that I had swallowed ten grains of morphine and was good for an excursion somewhere. I made lightning work of climbing into my clothes and getting downstairs, and there I found the druggist as calm as an old shoe."

"I think I put up morphine for quinine for one of three persons," he explained, "and so I called around to see if you were dead. Let me look at the box."

"By John, man," I yelled at him, "but do you make a regular thing of killing somebody once a week with your old drugs? If you have poisoned me—"

"These are quinine, sure enough," he interrupted as he opened a capsule and tasted. "You can go back to bed, stranger."

"But I want to know about this thing. Why do you keep your morphine and quinine side by side? Why don't you have your mind?"

"You are all right and have no cause for complaint," he said as he lighted a cigar and seemed somewhat relieved in his mind.

"But who got the morphine? I asked.

"Lung Sing, the Chinaman, probably, and it's all right. It was either Lung Sing or old Bill Birdsall, and it doesn't matter which, as the boys are going to hang both of 'em tomorrow."—Chicago Journal.

Look Out For This.

The Russo-Jap war is over. Through the United States tours a little body of brave men—those who dashed into the harbor of Port Arthur and sunk the ship that bottled up the place.

"You are the men who corked the neck that held the port?" asks a person somewhere during their tour.

"Yes, honorable sir," responds the spokesman. "We were the cork's crew."

To thoroughly understand this, one should remember that in Japan everything is done backward; hence a cork-screw is used for corking.—Judge.

BREVITIES

THE HALL OF FAME.

The Marquis of Bute, just past twenty-three, is the richest bachelor in the house of peers.

The czar receives the largest salary in the world, $4,900,000 annually. In addition he draws revenue from more than 100 estates, his property.

Chaplain Henry A. Brown has been appointed chaplain at Fort McHenry. This is the first time in twenty years that the fort has had a chaplain.

Oscar Malmars, United States consul at Colon, was appointed by President Lincoln the day before he was assassinated and has been continually in the service ever since.

Ex-King Premph of Ashanti admired Joseph Chamberlain to such an extent that he ordered for himself a complete suit of clothes and monocle like those worn by the ex-colonial secretary.

J. E. Manix of Northampton, Mass., thirty-eight years old, president of a company representing forty-two retail stores, with a business of $30,000,000 a year, began his life as general store boy at $2 a week.

Warrant Officer Raven of the British warship Wildfire has made a world's record with the revolver, scoring all bulls at twenty yards and getting outside the black only once at fifty yards, a total of 167 points out of a possible 168.

J. N. Tata, the millionaire philanthropist of Bombay, who died recently, had made experiments extending over a series of years for the acclimatization of Egyptian cotton in India, and in suitable localities these met with some success.

Ella Manahwee, a Creek Indian girl who in 1900 was decided to be the most beautiful type of Indian maidenhood in Indian Territory, was married to Henry Jacobs. Jacobs is a half blood and one of the most progressive men of his tribe.

Marshall Field entered commercial life as a clerk in a general store at Conway, Mass. He was not considered a success by his employer, but disproved this verdict soon after, when he entered at the foot of the ladder the house of which he is now the head.

F. M. MacMahon, who invented the tape ticker, has just died in Newmarket, England. He was an American, and his first demonstration of his invention was the sending of the news of the winning of the Derby by Telegraph in 1881 from the course to the cable office.

HORSES AND HORSEMEN.

The green pacer Atell by Axtell, 2:12, worked a mile for Frank Clark at the Indianapolis track recently in 2:19 1/4.

A mile in 2:00 or better before the end of August is John Splan's prediction for the "clothesline pacer," Dan R., 2:01 1/2.

Ed Mitchell has a full sister to Emma M., 2:09 1/2, in training at Martinsville, Ill., which is considered very promising.

Dr. Paul Thompson of Lapeer, Mich., has purchased from E. E. Gray of Hinsdale, Ill., the bay gelding Ira King, 2:10 1/4.

Angus Pointer continues to win the slow pacing stakes on the Canadian circuit with a regularity which is becoming monotonous.

There is a two-year full brother to John A. McKerron, 2:04 1/2, at the San Jose (Cal.) track which is said to be a whirlwind at the pace.

Major Woodward, a green pacer which was not broken until last spring, recently worked a mile in 2:16 1/2, last quarter in 31 1/2 seconds, at the Centerville (Ind.) track.

SHORT STORIES.

Oklahoma, the youngest territory, has 352 newspapers.

The population of Cuba is now over 1,085,000, which is an increase of 10 per cent and more since 1900.

If the deposits now in the savings banks of this country were divided per capita, every man, woman and child would receive $417.21. The total sum is $2,923,204,845.

Daniel Briggs of Mechanic Falls, Me., furnishes the following facts, which are taken from his daily journal: From May 1, 1836, to May 1, 1904, sixty-eight years, it has rained 5,726 days, and in the same length of time it has snowed 2,663 days.

Dr. Wiley, the government chemist, says that after a story was published which stated that the Washington "poison squad" had beautiful pink cheeks after eating a certain food he received thousands of letters from women all over the world begging for the recipe.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

If you insist on pointing a revolver that is not loaded, point it at your own head.

In a man, that which is called conscience is largely a fear that he may be found out.

When an elderly man marries, he is as liable to fib about his age as the average woman is about hers.

Now up and up; when you take a good look at yourself in the glass don't you think, "Well, I'm not such a bad looking fellow?"

Do not believe the stories heard about big salaries; you have told stories of this kind yourself and know how unreliable they are.—Atchison Globe.

A Memorable Experience

[Original.]

Talk of the battlefield, the horror of lying out at night slowly bleeding to death! I have been through it. Nevertheless I once had a worse experience. I came out of the Spanish-American war alive, which is saying a great deal, recovered my health, then went to work as clerk in a mercantile house.

One morning I went up into the loft to hunt for some goods that had been stored there. In the center of the loft, which was open from end to end and side to side, stood a huge tank through which flowed the water that supplied the building. I mounted a platform on which it stood and looked down on the water, the surface being some five feet below the top. Floating about was a toy boat—how it came there I don't know—and it occurred to me to take it home to my little boy. It was in the center of the tank, and instead of getting something with which to draw it nearer I leaned over and reached for it. I lost my balance and fell in.

I found the water to be up to my chest, but noticed a mark which indicated that the overflow point was about two feet above my head. Next I noticed that the water was running in faster than it was running out. Had I known how to swim or float I would have had only to wait till it came up to high water mark, when I could have reached the edge of the tank and pulled myself out. But I was helpless in water over my head. Therefore when the surface reached a point above my breathing apparatus I would be drowned.

Now, when I was bleeding my life away on that battlefield I soon became unconscious, and that was the end of mental or physical suffering for the time at least, for the ambulance corps came along and took me in. But in the tank I had my full faculties—that is, for appreciation of my horrible situation. Had I been cool I might have hit on an expedient for saving myself, but as it was it only occurred to me to shout for help. I might as well have shouted on the inside of a hermetically sealed boiler. There was no one on the floor, and even if the sound could have got out of the tank it could not have reached the floor below, which was shut off by a trapdoor.

It occurred to me to make some way for the water to escape as fast as it flowed in. I put my hand in my pocket to get out my knife, with which to cut a hole just below the surface. Luckily it was there. I opened the only blade and hacked away. The tank was of pine, and I made progress. I had cut a hole the size of my little finger when the blade snapped. The outflow reduced the speed of the rise, making it extremely slow. I dived several times, hoping to recover the lost blade, but failed signally. I made a water mark on the side of the tank and found that the water was rising, according to my uncertain estimate, but about an inch an hour. I had only prolonged my sufferings.

By this time the water was up to my chin. I was completely unnerved. In battle I had commanded my company and was so intent upon keeping my men up to their work that I felt no fear whatever. Yet here I was needing all my faculties to save my life, and I had lost control of them. As the water slowly rose and reached my mouth I tilted back my head, then began to raise myself on my toes.

People have suffered incipient drowning and described their sensations. I was in a more agonizing position than one drowning who sinks beneath the surface and is soon unconscious. I was rather like one who is about to suffer death by torture. The most dreadful sensation I experienced was from the inclosure—those horrible sides of the tank that held me in. Now that I was obliged to hold my face upward I could look at the joists and roof above, and it was better than looking at my little prison. But it was all dreadful.

I had seen rats drowned in such manner and remembered their frightful leaps—leaps from water that furnished little resistance. The water rose above my mouth and nose when I stood on tiptoe, and I began to make spasmodic leaps. It was remarkable how far I could rise above the surface, but the farther I rose the worse it was for me on the return.

Still there was no sound. Fancy made me hear people hurrying up to release me, but I could not stop to listen. I must struggle on till unconsciousness came to end my sufferings. There was a buzzing in my ears, a tingling in my finger tips, while I danced a dance of death on my toes on the bottom of the tank.

Then suddenly something happened. I felt a current catch my toe, and in a twinkling it was sucked into a hole.

Was it life or quicker death? In a second I saw that it was quicker death. My toe had stopped the outflow of water, and it would now rise rapidly. But, bark! The first stroke of a city clock! I counted twelve strokes. There was a ray of hope. The clerks all went to lunch at that hour, and many of them washed their hands before going. They would notice that the flow of water had been stopped. But would they come in time to see what was the matter?

I went through the sensation of one drowning—an ecstatic thrill accompanied with what I had suffered—and when I came to consciousness was being roughly rolled on the floor. The clerks had missed the running water and had come up to find the cause.

A COUNTRY PLACE.

ADDING ATTRACTIVENESS TO A BARE AND SEVERE EXTERIOR.

A Simple Treatment Best—The Most Pleasing Color Scheme—An Old House Before and After Remodeling—Rough Stone Work.

More and more people are turning their thoughts toward homes in the country. In the case of some it is a home for the summer vacation months only, while for thousands of others whose business is in cities or villages the rapidly spreading trolley lines have afforded an opportunity for permanent homes in rural communities. The first thought of those who buy low priced homes in the country is to make their purchase more attractive. It is to give suggestions along this line that a writer in the Ladies' World submits the following:

A simple treatment of country houses is always best, even where one's purse is not limited. Too many have the idea that beautifying a country place calls for all the bay windows, dormer windows and gables it is possible to stick upon the house. This is often followed by a painter with an assortment of paints, all "loud" in color—raw reds, glaring yellows, harsh greens, and I have even seen black used in an attempt to adorn a country house.

It may be said right here that for a house that is surrounded by green trees and green fields there has been found no color yet which greatly surpasses the old fashioned white walls and green blinds.

The color of a country place, however, is dependent in no small measure upon the character of the house and the immediate surroundings. A house shingled all over may well be given one of the soft stains that come prepared for shingled walls and roofs. A very attractive color scheme in such a case is dun (a soft brown) for the walls, moss green for the roof and ivory white trimmings.

The first illustration is on the principle of the patent medicine advertisements—"before" and "after." The bare little house is one often seen in the country, and, while it may be home-like with shrubs and flowers about it, it needs some remodeling to make it both attractive and convenient as a place of abode.

No great expense has transformed the place as shown in the sketch of the remodeled house. The artistic roof breaks up the stiffness of the old house, while the double windows let in light and sunshine. The veranda in front can have a cobblestone front and a vine covered end. An open veranda may be built in the rear.

A great deal can be done with natural surroundings. If there are plenty of stones about, as there usually are, cobblestone work can be used to good effect in numerous places. If an old stone wall now extends along in front of the place do not disturb it. Where the driveway passes through the wall erect two cobblestone piers, letting the wall come up and make a union with these. Granite caps can be placed upon these entrance posts, or at much less expense one can make caps of cement and sand that will look nearly as well as granite. If the wall is laid up with flat stones, these being more common than the rounded cobblestones in some localities, the plan shown in the illustration can be followed. The wall ends on either side of the driveway with square or perpendicular ends. Upon the top of each is secured a large ball, either of granite or of cement and sand.

About almost every country place there are plenty of rounded cobblestones, from the size of an egg upward, which may be used with good effect in making a country place more attractive.

The top of the house chimney may need to be rebuilt. It is a simple matter to take down the brickwork as far as the roof, then retop the chimney with small cobblestones, laid up in cement, as shown herewith. Such a chimney is in good taste upon a simple country house and is very attractive.

An effective veranda can be built by laying up the front and ends with cobblestones, placing a broad cap of wood upon these, upon which the veranda posts or pillars can be set.

STANDARD OIL'S CHIEF.

Actual Head of Concern Is Henry H. Rogers. Says Thomas W. Lawson. Under the title "Frenzied Finance" Thomas W. Lawson of Boston, who for years was the agent and confidant of Henry H. Rogers of the Standard Oil company, seeks to dispel, in the August number of Everybody's Magazine, a popular impression that John D. Rockefeller is the actual head and brains of the Standard Oil company. He says at the present time Henry H. Rogers is the actual head of the Standard Oil system, and William Rockefeller stands next. He thus describes some of the inner workings of the company and the methods of the men who dominate its affairs:

"All business of the great Standard Oil system is dealt with through two great departments. Mr. Rogers is head of the executive and William Rockefeller the head of the financial department. All new schemes, whether suggested by outsiders or initiated within the institution, go to Mr. Rogers. If good enough to run the gamut of his tremendously high standard, the promoter, after he has set forth his plans and estimates, hears with astonishment these words:

"Wait until I go upstairs. I'll say yes or no upon my return."

"And upon his return it is almost always 'yes.' If the project, however, does not come up to his exacting requirements it is turned down without further ado or consultation with any of his associates."

"Going upstairs," Mr. Lawson asserts, means consulting with William Rockefeller, who passes upon the financial value of the scheme, agrees to furnish the money or turns it down.

Mr. Lawson says also that every man who does business for the Standard Oil company must wear its collar. This yoke is a code of rules, and the penalty for infringement is instant removal.

Mr. Lawson declares that there are only three men who can lend the name "Standard Oil" even in the most remote way to any project, for there is no more heinous crime in the Standard Oil decalogue than using the name "Standard Oil" without authority. He declares that these three men are Henry H. Rogers, William Rockefeller and John D. Rockefeller.

ONE OF FOLK'S STORIES.

Missouri's Democratic Nominee For Governor on Jealousy.

It was Joseph W. Folk, the circuit attorney of St. Louis, who brought the St. Louis boddlers to justice, and who has been nominated for governor of Missouri by the Democratic state convention. Talking one day about boddling and the meanness of it, Mr. Folk said to a reporter:

"There is something small and little about robbing taxpayers, robbing widows and orphans and all manner of poor folk. He is a mean man who commits this crime, as mean as one I saw once on a Mississippi steamer."

"And he was strangely mean, that chap. He was traveling with his daughter, a little girl of five or six. He was holding her over the rail so that she could see a monster catfish, when, somehow, he let go of her, and she fell into the deep stream with a splash."

"A deck hand was after her in an instant. Headforemost he shot in, and she was back in her father's arms again before three minutes had passed. The father was profoundly grateful to the deck hand. He pulled out a dollar bill."

"Got any change?" he said. "The man had none, so the father went bustling nervously here and there over the boat, waving his dollar bill and saying:

"Got any change? Got any change? Who's got change for a dollar? Here's a man has just saved my daughter's life and I want to give him a quarter. Got any change there?"—New York Times.

Freaks of a Cyclone.

One of the strange freaks of the recent tornado which wiped out part of the village of Chappaqua, N. Y., and killed one woman was the burying of a cow and calf in the collar of a barn on the farm of Warren Tompkins, which was razed to the ground, says the New York Tribune. The other day when the animals were found they were alive. The cow and calf were under ten tons of hay and straw, brick and other debris for five days. The only injury the calf suffered was the loss of its tail, which was cut off by a big beam. When found the animals were almost starved to death. It took almost two days to dig them out. Another freak of the cyclone was the blowing away of a solid silver knife and fork from the house of Robert Marrow to the St. Elmo hills, three miles away, where they were found stuck in the trunk of a big elm tree.

Noncommittal.

"I always feel sorry for a henpecked man."

"Why?"

"Say, I want you to understand that I never talk about my wife outside of the family."—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Cynical Heir.

"I understand your rich old uncle attends services regularly in the church by your house."

"Yes, the old man is doing the right thing by me even before he dies."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Can't Head Them Off.

"The Paddingtons are great on style, aren't they?"

"They have no automobile, have they?"

"No, but they belong to a church that has a curate."—Chicago Record-Herald.

DRESS AND FASHION.

PLEASING AND POPULAR MODELS AND MATERIALS OF THE DAY.

A Changeable Tadetta Silk Gown of Many Attractive Points—A Very Pretty Confection in Mercerized Checked Lawn—Fanciful in Detail.

The only refuge of those who sigh for simplicity is the rigor made elaboration, and a multitude of details still mark every other department of fashion. Changeable silk remains one of the season's favorites, and in this effect is the silk gown chosen for the first illustration, a tadetta of blue and green. Deft embroidery carried out in the tiniest folds of the silk itself enhances the two flounces, which carry also a tiny white lace edging. A tucked pale blue chiffon chemise, scollored all over with lace, accompanies the pretty pouching bodice, while the Henri II. sleeves are faced up and down with deep cuffs and finished with lace and soft blue chiffon ruffles.

Of a more summery type is the second model given, which is to be carried out in zephyr or mercerized lawn finely checked with black, the skirt carrying three volants of embroidered lawn and the corsage a bewitching three tier cape of the same. The belt would be pretty in pale blue shade, a touch of relief that might be repeated in a scarf on the hat, together with a wreath of shaded red roses.

White foulard with black rings upon it makes a very striking costume, with tucked white muslin forming the lower portion of the sleeves and the collar. The belt is of black lace, the hat of white straw and white roses.

Exceedingly attractive materials are finely checked voiles in pale blue and white or in red and white, while the white lincens spotted with black are always very effective. With these the belt becomes an important point. The leather belt, wide in the back, graduated in front to a narrow white line and buckled with a small metal buckle, is much used.

A very dainty notion is a prettily flowered silk ribbon belt tied through ivory rings at the back, tied in a bow and falling in long, round shaped ends to the hem of the skirt.

When chiffons and muslins, frills and furbelows, have become a tale told to the point of weariness—in short, with the first intimation of autumn activities—the strictly color made, small sleeved, tight fitting coat and plain skirt will, by all signs, appear on the scene again.

AMY VARNUM.

Pineapple Cobbler.

Four slices of pineapple cut in dice, one lemon and one orange sliced very thin, eight tablespoons of sugar, one pint of iced water and one cup of shaved ice. Place the fruit in a bowl, strew with the sugar and a little ice, and in ten minutes add the iced water. Stir well and pour into glasses half full of shaved ice; decorate with ripe berries.

Green Tomato Pie.

This pie should be made with upper and lower crusts of plain paste in the usual manner. For the inside slice the tomatoes thin, at age on the lower crust, add one-half cup of sugar, the juice of one lemon and a sprinkling of cinnamon if liked.

PATASKALA HAS A BIG FIRE

Blaze Started From a Gasoline Explosion Early Saturday Evening, Causing a Loss of $5,000 With Insurance Less--One Person Painfully Burned.

Pataskala, O., Aug. 1.—Fire destroyed four frame buildings here Saturday afternoon, entailing a loss of over $5,000 partly covered by insurance.

The fire originated in M. P. Sims's bakery and was caused by the baker's apprentice, Noble Merchant, trying to fill a gasoline stove before the blaze was entirely turned out. Some of the fluid spilled out on his clothing and on the stove and in an instant he was a mass of flames.

He rushed, screaming, through a side door to the street, where Mr. Sims was loading a wagon and the latter, grasping the situation in an instant, grabbed the lad and dipped him into a nearby tub of water. The boy was badly burned about the limbs and head.

The building was entirely destroyed together with three other buildings. The Joseph building, owned by Mr. A. Joseph of Columbus, suffered a loss of about $1,200. Mr. Sims lived upstairs and his household goods were not covered with insurance as well as his stock in the store below. The adjoining building was owned by Mr. Murdock of Prospect, Ohio, and his loss was about $300, covered by insurance. The building of H. W. Weigle was occupied by B. N. Voorhees as a grocery store, which was entirely destroyed, but most of the contents were saved.

In the rear of the bakery was located a stable belonging to W. H. Mead, together with ice houses, sheds, etc., and these were also destroyed.

ASKED COLUMBUS FOR HELP.

Columbus, Aug. 1.—The Columbus fire department received a call for assistance from Pataskala shortly before 5 o'clock and Chief Lauer ordered Engine company No. 4 to repair at once to the union station. A special train on the B. & O. was made up at once but before it had departed word came from the village that the fire was under control and the assistance would not be needed.

SUE FOR SALARIES

Circuit Court Judges Have Decided to Carry Their Cause Into the Supreme Court--Attorney General's Opinion to be Contested.

Although Attorney General Wade Ellis has given an opinion in which he holds that the circuit judges now on the bench are not entitled to any increase in salaries under the act passed by the last general assembly, it is not the purpose of the judges to give up. The meeting was thoroughly discussed at the recent meeting of the State Bar association at Put-in-Bay and the judges who were present mapped out a course of action. They agreed that an action should be filed in the supreme court, asking that the auditor of state be ordered to pay them the amount specified in the bill. It had been intended to have this action brought by a judge in either Hamilton or Cuyahoga county, but it is now the plan to have one of the judges in the smaller counties stand as plaintiff.

Under the old law the judges were paid $3,500 a year by the state. In Cuyahoga and Hamilton counties they receive $1,500 extra from the county, bringing the total up to $5,000. The new law gives all the circuit judges $6,000 a year, the amount to be paid by the state. The bill did not specify whether the increase was to become operative at once. Governor Herrick was away at the time that the bill was sent to his office for his signature, and it became a law because of the fact that he had neither signed nor vetoed it within the ten days fixed by the State laws.

OBITUARY

MRS. JOHN SAMSELL.

Mrs. Charles Babbitt, accompanied by her nephew, Mr. George Babbitt of Boston, reached home Sunday morning with the remains of her daughter, Mrs. John Samsell, whose death occurred at Marlston's Mills, Mass., on Friday morning. They had gone to the Cape Code the latter part of June in the hope of restoring Mrs. Samsell's health which had been seriously threatened for some months. Everything which medical skill and careful nursing could do was faithfully performed, but in vain. While all were intensely solicitous as to her condition no one dreamed that the end was so near. She had partaken of a light breakfast and was in her usual cheery spirits when a violent hemorrhage attacked her causing almost instant death. It was impossible to summon the father and husband who were shocked beyond measure at the unexpected announcement. Mr. Samsell was in Indiana on business but arrived here Sunday morning.

Julia Babbitt Samsell was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Babbitt, and had passed almost her entire life in Newark, where her beautiful character is too well known to need extolling. Her life was an open book spotless and pure. Her nature was a gentle one—whom to know was to love. Her devotion to home and parents was beautiful, but she was none the less the faithful wife of Mr. Samsell, whose bride she became less than two years ago. Her mind was clear, and broad and her early school life gave evidence of the studious trend of her thoughts. She was a valued member for years of the Review Club, was a faithful worker in the King's Daughters and a constant attendant of the Second Presbyterian church, with which she united early in life.

The funeral will take place from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Babbitt, corner of Granville and Sixth streets on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock and the services will be conducted by the Rev. L. S. Boyce.

SUICIDE

RECALLS THAT OF PROF. TAFEL SEVEN YEARS AGO.

Latter Was Principal of Columbus Schools, Drew Teachers Salaries and Left--Men Not Related.

Columbus, O., Aug. 1.—The tragic suicide of Receiver W. G. Tafel of Newark, recalls another suicide of a man named Tafel which occurred in 1897. The two suicides were not related, although their names were pronounced alike. However, the Newark man spelled his name differently, using two a's. The story of the former suicide follows:

Eugene Tafel was elected principal of Fulton street school by the board of education of Columbus September 23, 1887, succeeding J. E. N. Guesbacher, who was accidentally drowned in the Scioto river the July previous. At that time it was the duty of the principals of the schools to draw the salaries of the teachers of their building at the clerk's office and pay them at their buildings.

The last of the following, January Principal Tafel drew the salaries of his teachers as usual, amounting to several hundred dollars, but instead of returning to the building with it he went to the station and took a train for Cleveland. The teachers, after waiting a long time for him to return with their money, sent to his home to learn what had become of him. His wife suspected that something was wrong and started immediately for the station and followed her husband on the next train to Cleveland.

Tafel spent the night in a gambling room at Cleveland and lost all of the money in his possession. He then went to his hotel and shot himself in the head, dying almost instantly. He left a number of debts in this city, which were straightened up by a brother in the east.

THE MEAT INDUSTRY

HOW COMBINATIONS HAVE WROUGHT WONDERFUL CHANGES IN IT.

The Great Strike and Its Effect on the Public--J. Ogden Armour's Career--Michael J. Donnelly, Who Led the Strikers--Chicago's Stockyards.

The far-reaching strike among the butchers and meat handlers connected with the packing houses of the country led the public to discover that an interruption of the meat supply involves considerable hardship. In times gone by, when almost every community of size had its own local slaughter house and butcher shops dependent upon it, a general strike of this character would hardly have been possible. Combination and concentration have wrought wonderful changes in the industry—some for the better, some for the worse. There are now about 80,000 persons employed in the work of preparing meat for the tables of the American people, besides the stockmen engaged in raising animals to form food for the public. The number of the stock raisers is estimated at about 2,000,000.

In Chicago, which is the center of the meat packing business, the interests involved in the strike represent property valued at over $100,000,000. The best known of the packing companies comprising the combination popularly known as the beef trust are Armour & Co., the Cudahy Packing company, Swift & Co., Nelson Morris & Co., Schwarzschild & Sulzberger, the National Packing company, the Continental Packing company and G. H. Hammond company.

The Armour company is the most famous of these concerns. It was founded by the late Philip Armour, whose beneficent use of his great fortune won him a reputation for generosity and philanthropy. The present head of the Armour house is J. Ogden Armour, who is much the same kind of a business man that his father was. Though educated at Yale he is not at all a bookish man, but is very practical in his nature. His devotion to his business is constant and untiring. It is said of him that he wakes by the same alarm clock that routed his father at an early hour.

The Armour company has many branch houses, and it is estimated that the employees the world over number about 30,000 and that with those dependent on them for support they would make a city of 100,000 people.

Michael Donnelly, who leads the striking meat handlers, is president of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters' union. When he gave the order about 20,000 men went on strike in Chicago alone. In a few days the number of butchers and meat handlers out in the different cities affected was estimated at 50,000.

The Chicago stockyards were established nearly forty years ago and now cover a territory about one square mile in extent. Live stock aggregating in value $6,000,000,000 has been marketed there since the yards were established.

BUILDERS

ARE PLANNING AN OUTING AT BUCKEYE LAKE IN THE NEAR FUTURE.

Zanesville, August 1.—Secretary Charles Baker of the Zanesville Builders' Exchange, has received a letter from Secretary R. L. Gardner of the Columbus Builders' Exchange. The Columbus body is planning an all-day picnic and outing at Buckeye Lake. The letter extends an invitation to Zanesville exchange members to partake in the celebration.

At present President R. L. Quieser is in Springfield. It is possible a meeting of the local exchange will be called to consider the invitation extended them by Columbus and to form plans for the occasion. From 300 to 400 members of the Columbus exchange will take in the excursion. A large number of Newark exchange members will join the party at Buckeye Lake.

LABOR DAY

COMMITTEES ARE PREPARING FOR THE BIG EVENT.

Reports From Surrounding Towns Indicate That Many Visitors Will Be Here to Celebrate.

The general committee on Labor Day met in the Trades and Labor Council rooms Sunday and made its report, which shows that all the committees are hard at work and have matters in full swing for one of the biggest and best Labor Day celebrations ever held in Central Ohio.

The program for the day embraces a monster procession in which every merchant in the city will take part and all the business establishments will be represented by floats of every description and conceivable taste, fantasies, balloon ascension, parachute jump, high wire performance, races of every description, baseball game between the miners of Straitsville and the miners of Shawnee, fireworks and closing with a grand ball at Brennan's hall in the evening.

Prizes will be offered for every contest, including the handsomest business float and the most ridiculous fantastic get up.

No pains are being spared by those having the celebration in charge to make a success of the affair, and reports from the neighboring towns and cities are to the effect that there will be a great influx of visitors to Newark on that day. It is only five weeks off now and much will be done between now and then.
